

Land and Water's Employee Value Proposition

As sympathetic guardians of our planet we are passionate about caring for our coastline, the nation's network of rivers, streams, wetlands and waterways. We recognise the need to support the changing landscape and environments we live in and strive always to leave the world a better place from the work we do.

Our thirst for innovation and diversity of capabilities and experience puts us in a unique position to deliver excellence where land meets water. We strive always to adopt a humanitarian attitude towards our people and their life challenges with their wellbeing at the heart of what we do. Our core values guide our daily activities and help us create a working environment where people can thrive.

Are you a Site Manager or Foreman with experience in general civils, piling, groundworks or earthworks; if so a career with Land & Water may be just what you crave?

Have a look at our website and give us a call for a chat about what it's like working here and the sorts of things you could get involved in.
